"DICK" ROURKE IS FOUND
SUNDAY SAFE AND SOUND

Spent Saturday Night at Homestead-er's Cottage and Was on Way to Winona Yesterday When He Was Met by Large Party of Searchers—Spent a Night Alone in the Woods.

"Dick" Rourke is found. After being lost in the woods in the vicinity of Elm River since Friday afternoon he was met at about 10 o'clock Sunday morning by a couple of miles out from the Winona location by a big party of searchers that left on the Copper Range Sunday morning. He had spent Saturday night at the camp of Matt Fred, who was bringing him in to Winona when the searching party encountered them. Mutual greetings were exchanged and Mr. Rourke returned to his home in Hancock with the party, arriving about noon.

Mr. Rourke was little the worse for his experience, although he had been without food or shelter for nearly 26 hours. He expressed the greatest gratitude for the exertions that had been made in his behalf and the meeting on the Winona road yesterday morning was an inspiring sight. Mr. Rourke was overwhelmed by the solicitude shown regarding his welfare, and was besieged with inquiries regarding the incidents of his being lost in the woods.

Mr. Rourke's story of his experience is as follows:

"We arrived in our camp near Elm River shortly after noon Friday and I left the boys telling them that I was going to take a look at the beaver dam, which was located about a mile from camp. I must have gone farther than I intended, and darkness coming on quickly I was unable to get my bearings. I gathered up some brushwood and small limbs of trees and made a fire, alongside of which I spent the night, expecting to be able to find my way back to camp in the morning by means of the sun or by noting the moss on the sides of the trees. Saturday it rained all day, and the sun was invisible, and I found that the moss grew in equal quantities on all sides of the bark, so that it was useless to try and make my bearings from this. I had no compass with me. We had two in the party, but we had planned to travel in pairs, so that we thought it unnecessary for all four of us to take a compass. I had but three cartridges with me, and two of these I fired to attract attention, but received no response. I decided to save the third, in case I should come across a wolf, and need it to protect myself. I listened carefully to detect the sound of locomotive or mine whistles by which I might obtain an idea of where I was, but heard none. After roaming about in the woods, and being at times within a few hundred feet, as I afterwards learned, of the main trail through the woods, I came across a trail which I followed, it being the only sign of the presence of human beings that I encountered since leaving camp. In about half an hour or so I reached a cabin in a small clearing, and found myself at the homestead of Matt Fred of Hancock, who was there with two of his sons. They had just got back from the woods and were themselves soaked through, otherwise I would have asked them to take word to camp of my safety. I was given some hot coffee and food and went to bed, leaving my saturated garments to dry. At 6 o'clock on Sunday morning Mr. Fred hitched up and the two boys started with me to Winona. On the way in on rounding a bend in the road we were met by the party of about fifty who had come in to look for me. The Freds boys went over to Elm river to tell the party over there that I was safe and that I was going home instead of returning to camp. No, I wasn't alarmed at any time, and did not lose my head. It was the third time in my hunting experience that I have been lost in the woods and I felt no alarm. I was pretty much exhausted by my long wandering, and was soaked to the skin when I reached the Freds homestead. I did not feel the lack of food very much, but I don't think I could have stood the exposure to the weather much longer. I feel very grateful to all those who so kindly volunteered to search for me, and appreciate all that has been done, but regret having caused everybody so much trouble and alarm."

The news that Mr. Rourke was lost in the woods created a great deal of excitement on Saturday and was the general subject of conversation. There was no lack of responses to the call for volunteers to form a searching party to go into the woods on Sunday morning to aid in the work of rescue. The greatest concern was felt by everybody, and it was with a feeling of thankfulness and relief that the tidings of Mr. Rourke's safe return was announced in a message from Winona at about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. Rourke spent Sunday afternoon resting at his home in Hancock and was visited by a large number of friends who called to express their pleasure at his safety and to congratulate him upon escaping from his predicament without serious consequences from the cold, hunger, and exposure that he experienced.

CONTEST FOR MEMBERS.

St. Joseph's Club Will Meet Wednesday to Perfect Organization.

A meeting was held yesterday morning of the recently reorganized St. Joseph's club, composed of the young men and boys of St. Joseph's parish. A copy of the constitution and by-laws of the Young Men's Catholic club of Laurium, on which it was supposed to model the constitution of the St. Joseph's club, was presented, and it was decided to adopt one very similar, with such omissions and additions as might be deemed advisable to meet the requirements of the club.

The card party to be given on Monday evening next, November 22, was discussed and further arrangements planned, and it was also decided to inaugurate a membership contest, the details of which will be worked out and acted upon at another meeting to be held Wednesday evening at the St. Joseph's parish hall in the new school building. At this meeting a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, three trustees and an athletic chairman and library chairman will be selected, the officers selected at the meeting last week having been only temporary.

STREET CAR SMASHED.

A local car of the Houghton County Street Railway company ran off the track on Front street Sunday evening at about 8 o'clock, and crashed into a telephone pole near the Baptist church. The pole was broken in two and was only kept from falling by the wires. The end of the car was badly shattered, and the damage done was considerable. The occupants of the car were badly shaken but no one was injured.

The board of public works will meet this afternoon to receive the report of City Engineer Craig relative to the proposed new pump for the upper system, and to make recommendations concerning the same to the council at its regular meeting tonight. The council tonight will also hear from the fire hall committee relative to securing new harness for the chemical engine. A number of other important matters will also be acted upon.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES
SUCCESSFULLY CONCLUDED

Addresses by Rev. Dr. Martin at Methodist Church Yesterday Were Heard by Very Large Audiences—Considerable Amount Pledged Towards the Liquidation of Church Indebtedness.

The series of meetings and services held in observance of the sixth anniversary of the dedication of the Hancock Methodist Episcopal church, was brought to a close with the addresses given yesterday morning and evening by Rev. Dr. D. Martin of Albion college. The congregations were very large, both morning and evening, especially at the latter service when the congregation was the largest that has ever been present in the church at any regular service, although it has been exceeded on several occasions when union services were held in which the congregations of the various local churches participated. The addresses by Dr. Martin were of great interest and ably delivered, as was also that of Rev. A. B. Sutcliffe of Grace M. E. church, Houghton, given at the Sunday school session in the afternoon.

The attendance at the Sunday school was 220, being almost equal to the record attendance of 234 on one Sunday in February last. This is contrary to the usual supposition that more children attend Sunday school just before Christmas than at any other time. Observation among various Methodist Sunday schools shows that the February records are usually the largest, though the reason for this is not apparent.

The subscriptions and donations for the anniversary week were very gratifying and will be about the same as last year, when $2,470 was pledged. The receipts of the turkey supper given by the Ladies' Aid society last week, and which were applied to the church fund, amounted to nearly $150. The amount of indebtedness on the church now left is about $4,700 and it is hoped that this will be entirely wiped out by two years hence, when the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Methodist church in Hancock will be celebrated. It can be done it is stated, if some of the large contributors would double their pledges next year, in which event the last cent of outstanding indebtedness could be liquidated and the burning of the mortgage made a feature of the semi-centennial observance.

A couple of plain drunks arrested Saturday night were arraigned this morning before Justice Oliver and given the usual fines.
